DETAILED ACTION

This application has been withdrawn from issue (see 9/14/06 communication) so as to make the following rejection:

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 11 and 14 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6196028 in view of Blankenship, Sharp and Mimura.

Claim 1 of the '028 patent covers an apparatus comprising a rotation mechanism that rotates a supporting core of a preform, an adjustable support member, a sensor for measuring a preform characteristic indicative of a sag of a preform, and a servo control and synchronization mechanism coupled to the sensor for adjusting the support member according to the preform characteristic measured by the sensor. In other words, the apparatus covered by the patent claims substantially comprises every limitation of the instant claim 11 except for the rotatable wheel having a tread strip.

Note that the claimed structure comprising an adjustable support having a rotatable wheel that includes a tread strip for supporting a preform has been rejected in the 02-24-2005 rejection as being obvious over the combination of Blankenship, Sharp and Mimura, maintained in the final rejection of 7-7-2005 and affirmed in the pre appeal conference (see 3/21/06 decision).

Because of the above reasons and evidence it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to provide for the adjustable support of the preform supporting apparatus covered by the claim 1 of the '028 patent with a rotatable wheel having a tread strip thereon as taught by the combined teachings of Blankenship, Sharp and Mimura in order to allow the support member to contact the preform without damage to the preform.

Claim Objections

Claim 13 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
